Copperopolis Volunteer Brigade

Wednesday June 16th, 2021 6pm

The Armory in downtown Copper.

Plenty of parking. Everyone welcome. Free admission.

This is an urgent outreach to come and network with local folks to find out about the local non-profits serving our community. This is a hands-on introduction to all the multiple choices of opportunities to help our community grow together and enrich our lives in this rural area. Volunteers are desperately needed to push ideas forward and manage the many aspects we all expect to make our town a comfortable place to grow and prosper. At this meeting you will learn about the many non-profit organizations that exist, how to network and stay in contact with them. There is no obligation to join anything but you may find something you desire to be a part of. Tables for each organization will be set up to check out and there will be some dialog for everyone to hear. We must band together to build a strong community volunteer pool to help with local events and happenings and you can be a part of it! Come and join us. Please share this with your friends and any interested parties. Volunteers of Copperopolis!
